ART UNIT 1651

In my studies, as it relates to Crohn's Disease, which is an inflammation of the colon and also of the small intestine, it's origin and cause is still unknown, the current regimen and/or modality of treatment in most cases does not control, eliminate, or put into remission for any length of time, this most dreaded disease. As of this date, there is no known cure.

The independent extrapolation of matter from the hypothalamus of the brain and the subsequent creation of an autogenous vaccine will not do the job. The same holds true for the independent extrapolation of matter from the medulla of the kidney, which also does not work, but I believe only the combination of the two will positively do the job.

I will gladly donate my patent, free of charge, and I would not hesitate at being a "guinea pig" for this trial and/or procedure, since I am a victim of Crohn's Disease, myself.
